A. J. MAY, Pastor.

Bank Examiner Sam Nicolls was here Tuesday going over the books of the local banks. Sam is making a good record as bank examiner.

The present primary election promises to be one of the quietest in the history of the county. But we'll roll in the votes in the good old way in November.

Wayne county went dry in the local option there March 30th by a majority of 187. The dries say that if the weather had not been so bad their majority would have been much greater.

MARRIED—At the residence of the bride's parents, on Marble Creek, Mo., April 4, 1906, by the Rev. J. H. Calvert, Mr. Benjamin M. Patterson and Miss Katie Alliger. All of Iron county, Mo.

Mrs. Christ has leased the Barnhouse property on Main street, and will open a bakery there with as little delay as possible. The oven left from the fire will be moved to the Barnhouse lot at once.

The Ironton colored school will have commencement exercises in the Academy of Music Monday evening, April 23d. There are two graduates this year, and an interesting programme has been arranged. An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged.

Mrs. Christ says the report that they lost property once before by fire previous to their coming to Ironton is a mistake. They were victims of the flood in East St. Louis several years ago, but were never burned out before.

Our neighbor, Dr. Marshall, celebrated his birthday last Saturday. The Dr. refuses to tell us just what anniversary this was, but confesses to as many as twenty-six anyway. Here's hoping he'll have a thousand more.

The report that Mrs. Thornton, widow of the late editor Thornton of Bellevue, is suffering from smallpox is a mistake. Mrs. Thornton has not been very well the past week or so, but she is improving now, and it is hoped will be in her usual health soon.

We have arranged with the contractor whereby the removal of our present store building and the erection of the new, will not interfere in any way with our business, which will be continued without interruption.

LOPEZ STORE CO.

We see that J. M. White, brother of our fellow townsman, R. T. White, last Saturday secured the nomination for County Clerk in Madison county. We don't know J. M., but if he's as good a man as his Iron county brother, he should get most all the votes in November.

A meeting of the city council was held Monday evening. Geo. W. Marshall assumed the duties of City Marshal, and the new councilmen were sworn in. A motion was passed discontinuing the lighting of the street lamps. This action was taken because of lack of funds.

The school board held a meeting Saturday evening. The newly elected members were sworn in and organization was effected by naming H. M. Collins president. Prof. Daugherty was granted permission to use the public school building to conduct his summer school.

The house of Alex. White, colored, in Pilot Knob, came very near being destroyed by fire Monday. The fire started on the inside of the house and burned a hole through the roof. No one was at home at the time, but some of the neighbors saw the flames and extinguished them before any great damage was done.

Mrs. Woodside announces that her Easter opening will be held Saturday, April 14th. There will be on display a large and most elegant line of all that is new and novel in spring and summer millinery. The ladies are cordially invited to call and inspect this handsome stock before selecting their spring hats and bonnets.

There is still much complaining over the present train schedule. In fact, the conditions are outrageous. Under the present time card people between Bismark and St. Louis can only get into the Valley by one train, and that arrives here at midnight. It is shameful, and something should be done to remedy the matter.

PUBLIC SALE.—On Saturday, April 21, 1906, at Ironton, Mo., in the vacant lot south of Whitworth Sons' store, I will sell at auction to the highest bidder, a span of horses, wagon and harness, a mower, binder and other farming implements. Terms: Six months' credit, with note with approved security. A. L. HILL.

We are pleased to note that C. T. Mason, son-in-law of our well known townsman, Judge A. Blaine, has been given the position of trainmaster for the Trinity & Brazos Valley Railway Company, with headquarters at Cleburne, Tex. Mr. Mason is well known through his former connection with the Iron Mountain service.—Piedmont Banner.

All the services at St. Paul's church will be of a special and festive nature on Easter. They are as follows: Holy communion at 8:30 and 7:30 A. M.; Sunday school celebration; special programme, no lessons, 9:30 A. M.; Holy communion, Easter music and sermon, 11 A. M.; Evening prayer and sermon, 7:30 P. M., instead of at 4 P. M., as was the case during Lent. It is desired that every confirmed person in the parish partake of the Communion on Easter, and also that the offering be large. The public is cordially invited to attend the Sunday school service and the two later church services.

Our young friend, H. B. Jones, writes us a letter from Arkansas. Harry is getting along very nicely, but doesn't seem to relish the idea of Jeff Davis beating Berry for United States Senator in the late primary election in that State. He says that if all the States were like Arkansas Jeff would sure be President. And we don't think that would be so bad either.

The Junior League will be permanently organized Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, and we wish very much that all the children may be present. We insist on the parents sending the children to the Junior League at the Methodist church, if they are not in attendance elsewhere, and we promise to treat them kindly and do them good.

MRS. W. J. SMITH, Supt.

In this issue of the REGISTER will be found the announcement of J. W. Alcorn as candidate for the Democratic nomination for County Judge of the Southern District. Mr. Alcorn several years ago filled this position and made a splendid official. Honest in all things, straightforward and conscientious, his friends are legion and unquestionably they will rally to his support in large numbers on election day. In an unusual degree does he possess those qualifications we most admire in men.

To Joseph N. McFarland, agent of the Cotton Belt at Mount Pleasant, Texas, we are indebted for a book giving reproductions of the old Confederate flags, recently returned to the men who bore them, by the United States government. The pamphlet was issued by the passenger department of the Cotton Belt road, and is indeed an interesting volume. The reproductions of the flags are perfect and nearly all of them are tattered and weather-beaten. We prize the little book very much and return Mr. McFarland our sincere thanks.

Last Monday Edmond Brent, who resides near Carola, in this county, killed 101 snakes in a den near the home of his uncle. There were 91 rattlesnakes and ten other varieties in the den, comprising copperheads, blue racers and chicken snakes. This is an actual fact, as was written up by Mr. Brent, who says the snake killing took place two miles south of the Carola post-office, on the Quinine Central railroad. He furnished us with quite a list of reputable citizens of that locality, who were present at the snake killing and who will vouch for the authenticity of the story.—Poplar Bluff Citizen.

THE REGISTER this week prints the announcement of E. L. Barnhouse as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Probate Judge. The office of probate judge is a most important one and the honest and faithful discharge of the duties thereof is of great moment to the people of the county. It is the province of the probate judge to look after and guard the interests of those who are unable to protect themselves. Dr. Barnhouse has filled this office the past two years and it can be said without fear of contradiction that in all ways at all times he has proven capable and faithful. He has made a record of which his friends are justly proud.

Little Carl Bolch, six years old, of Annapolis, came very near being drowned while visiting at the home of Mrs. Sarah Riley in this city, last Thursday afternoon. Carl was playing in the yard and started to run across a board that had been placed over the opening in the well curbing. The board turned and the little fellow plunged into the well, into possibly ten feet of water. Mrs. Riley saw him fall and rushed to the rescue. She looked down and saw Carl keeping his head above water by clinging to the pump pipe. The water was about five feet from the surface, but the little fellow managed to climb up the pipe until he could be helped out. Carl is a brave little boy with plenty of nerve. If he hadn't been it is very doubtful if he had gotten out of the well so easily and unscathed.

Richard Weber, the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weber of Graniteville, was quite badly hurt at the railroad crossing just north of the Ironton station, shortly after three o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Weber, their two small boys and Mrs. J. W. Allen were driving north in a two-horse rig. Just before they reached the railroad track they saw a freight train coming north at a high rate of speed. Seeing he could not get over the track Mr. Weber, who was driving, attempted to turn the horses to one side, but they became unruly and would not go. Immediately Mr. and Mrs. Weber and the older boy and Mrs. Allen got out of the rig. Mr. Weber was trying to control the horses and Mrs. Weber was trying to get the little boy, Richard, out of the rig when the train struck it, completely demolishing the rig and throwing the boy to the ground. How he escaped instant death seems miraculous. He was hurriedly picked up and brought down town to Dr. Marshall's office, where an examination revealed that he had been severely cut in the face and the back of the head. The injuries were dressed and the little fellow sent to his home in Graniteville that evening. While he was badly hurt, it is hoped and believed that the results will not be fatal. It is truly remarkable that no one else in the party was hurt. The horses were skinned a little and the rig was a total wreck, pieces of it being carried up the track for a hundred yards or more. This crossing is at best a very dangerous one, and it seems to us that public safety demands that a watchman should be maintained there.

J. W. Craven was Cashier of the Iron County Bank for a short time when it was organized ten years ago. He came here from Licking, Mo., where his family is one of the most prominent and highly respected in the community. He left Ironton about nine years ago for Texas to engage in the banking business there, but after a short while returned to his father's home in Licking, having made a failure of the Texas Bank. The following is from Wednesday's St. Louis Republic: "J. W. Craven, who was indicted by the Federal Grand Jury two weeks ago on a charge of making fraudulent affidavits to get possession of government lands in Dent county, Missouri, was arrested yesterday at Boise City, Idaho. The information of his apprehension was telegraphed to Horace L. Dyer, Assistant United States District Attorney, yesterday afternoon by N. M. Ruick, United States District Attorney, at Boise. His message said that the prisoner would be returned to St. Louis at once. According to the indictment Craven made a business of getting old soldiers to enter claims for land under Section No. 2306 of the Revised Statutes of the United States. Those who served as Federal soldiers in the civil war are entitled to enter 160 acres of land, and are not required to live on it, but instead can dispose of it in any manner they see fit. Craven is charged with making a false affidavit before a notary public at Salem, Mo., July 27, 1903. He made claim as administrator of the estate of David L. Young, to 120 acres of land. Young had made entry in 1872, and received forty acres. The additional amount he was entitled to enter was 80 acres. It is alleged that Craven made false statements regarding the dates of Young's enlistment in the army and concerning his discharge. It is also said that the dates of the original entry, made by Craven, were false. According to the indictment, Craven had made a business of getting old soldiers to enter land, and then buying it." The REGISTER's recollections of Mr. Craven are very pleasant and we hope he may have no trouble in proving his innocence. Later—Wednesday's Globe-Democrat stated that Mr. Craven promptly gave bond in the sum of $3,000 for his appearance in St. Louis.

The lovely springtime is here at last and at the millinery opening at Mrs. Woodside's next Saturday the ladies will find everything they wish for in the way of beautiful and artistic headwear.
